Multi-Platform Campaign In Support Of Nature Valley Trail View
Kicks Off In June 2012

New York, NY – June 6, 2012 – General Mills’ Nature Valley brand will partner with Smithsonian Channel on a variety of upcoming nature-related series and specials airing on the cable network, it was announced today. The multi-platform campaign kicks off in June and runs through May 2013.

The campaign will support the recently launched Nature Valley Trail View, an extension of Nature Valley’s successful “Preserve the Parks” initiative. Nature Valley Trail View is designed to provide an immersive, virtual experience with 360-degree, first-person trail perspectives, covering over 300 miles of trails in three of our nation’s most popular and iconic national parks: The Great Smoky Mountains, Yellowstone and the Grand Canyon.

“Our nature and wildlife programming is the perfect way for Nature Valley to connect with an audience that loves nature, and this campaign will encompass on-air, online and social media applications designed to provide maximum impact for Trail View,” said Tom Hayden, Smithsonian Channel’s General Manager.

“Nature Valley has a commitment to encourage outdoor exploration and education, a heritage that is a good fit with Smithsonian Channel, which engages nature lovers with its high quality programming that both entertains and informs,” added Scott Baldwin, Nature Valley Associate Director.

Kicking off the campaign is Nature Valley’s exclusive partnership of the new one-hour nature and wildlife documentary, SECRET LIFE OF THE RAINFOREST, premiering Wednesday, June 6 at 8 p.m. ET/PT Smithsonian Channel. Nature Valley also will partner on other key nature programs and select episodes of “Aerial America” featuring beautiful views of our National Parks as part of the multi-platform campaign.
